Úbeda is a hamlet belonging to the municipality of Pinoso in Alicante, in the Valencian Community, Spain. It is located about 8 km northeast of Pinoso.

Úbeda is an excellent option for an inland property. As well as its churches, palaces and mansions, the landscape of olive trees surrounding it makes for a relaxing atmosphere. Its restaurants and tapas bars, and the chance to sample the famous local olive oil, do the rest. Olive oil with the Sierra Mágina Designation of Origin is the star product of the area. Not surprisingly, it forms part of local specialities like andrajos (a dish of wheat cakes which usually includes cod and rabbit) and ochíos (bread rolls with paprika), and there is even an Olive Groves and Oil visitors' centre. There you can join a tasting class or activities like tours of olive groves. But you can also enjoy the finest olive oil in the town's tapas bars and restaurants, including unusual places such as a replica of an old railway carriage.

Úbeda is also famous for its artisanal workshops, so if you want a nice souvenir, have a look in its potteries where you can buy something unique and watch the potters at work.
